BATTERED JAP FLEET RETREATS

British 'Chute Troops Invade Base in France

London
Feb. 28 (AP)

Daring British parachutists and sea-borne infantry combined today in a destructive attack on a German radio detector post in the first sizeable invasion of the northern French coast since the fall of France.

Under cover of a protecting umbrella of Royal Air Force fighters and with navy assistance the raiders then withdrew.

London quarters viewed the "thrust and cut" raid as possibly the first of a series planned to harass the Germans at various points in the west, thus forcing them to keep strong garrisons in the occupied territories.

BRITISH TAKE OFFENSIVE

In it the British turned from defensive strategy by land to offensive warfare.

Although an official spokesman declined to give the location, the length of time the operation took suggested the radio station might have been on the western tip of the Brittany peninsula in the Brest region, one of the most distant points on the channel.

Timed to the minute, the parachutists dropped out of the clouds to form hastily as an assault group against the German garrison at the same time that infantry, ferried across the English channel, landed on the beach.

Joining forces, the two detachments which a military spokesman said could not be assumed to be "small," dealt a one-two punch to the Nazi force while demolition squads wrecked the radio stations.

BIG AIR BATTLE RAGES

Then they departed as quickly as they had come, leaving behind a ruined location post and a dispersed force of German guards.

Early this afternoon a military spokesman in London said it was not yet known whether ships bringing the raiding parties back had yet landed in England.

The spokesman said the possibility of a major air battle between German bombers dealing an aerial counter-stroke and the RAF fighter umbrella "cannot be denied."

(Apparently this meant that possibly German bombers might be attempting to destroy the ships carrying the homeward bound troops in the English Channel and were meeting stiff opposition from British fighter planes.)

RAID ON RADIO

Some British sources predicted that this feat by hard-bitten parachutists and infantry might be the opening gun of a series of stabs against the Germans' long, exposed flank from the Arctic Circle to the Bay of Biscay.

The attack, against a radio post which presumably was used to detect British bombers crossing the channel, was the first major British raid on northern Europe and also the first reported use of parachutists since the raid on southern Italy Feb. 14, 1941.

The raid apparently was on a large scale since the troops were mentioned specifically as "infantry" and not as commandos. It was the first time regular British infantry had been in France since the last of the BEF left Brest June 18, 1940, after the French armistice.

JAP FLEET RETREATS—A major battle in the Java sea (1) between Allied naval squadrons and a strong Jap armada has resulted in a retreat of a Jap convoy to the north. Meanwhile, Jap bombers raided the Allied naval base at Soerabaja (2) and the city of Malang (3).

M'ARTHUR'S TROOPS HOLD ALL GAINS

•U. S. OFFICIAL

By JOSEPH A. BORS

Although fighting on Bataan has died down to minor patrol skirmishes, the War Department reported today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops are holding all advance positions taken in recent surprising counter-attacks.

This was announced by the department in a communique as both the War and Navy departments awaited word on the mighty battle between Jap warships and those of this country and other United Nations in the Java sea.

The communique pointed out that as the result of the defenders' smashing counter-offensives, MacArthur's line now stretches from Abucay on Manila bay across the peninsula to a point on the China sea midway between Bagac and Moran.

Official spokesmen said the new line represents gains by MacArthur running from five to six miles clear across the 13-mile-wide peninsula.

Abucay is north of the village of Balanga which the Japanese took several weeks ago. This would indicate Balanga is again in MacArthur's hands.

(At Abucay, MacArthur's forces were approximately 22 miles from the penninsula's tip, opposite the fortress islands of Corregidor safeguarding Manila bay.)

JAPS MASSING FOR BIG DRIVE IN BURMA

London
Feb. 28 (AP)

The Japanese are massing troops for a renewed smash toward Rangoon and the Burma front situation is "very serious," a British commentator acknowledged today.

He admitted that reports the Japanese had cut the road and railroad north of Pegu probably were true and emphasized the strength of the imminent Japanese onslaughte against British troops holding the lines west of the Sittang river.

The Japanese infantry suffered 2000 casualties in a series of bull-like rushes against a small British force holding a bridgehead across the Sittang, the commentator added.

Another British force, cut off when the Japanese enveloping movement of the north flanked it, fought its way back to the present lines after days of severe fighting.

By WITT HANCOCK

Warships of the United Nations flung back today an attempt by a huge fleet of Japanese warships and transports to storm the Soerabaja naval base and invade Java, but tonight the armada was believed reforming somewhere in the Java Sea for a second onslaught.

Battered and scrambled in a night-long battle, the Japanese warships and their train of many transports retreated northward, and at 8:30 p. m. (8 a. m., EWT) the quasi-official Aneta News Agency said:

"It may be stated with absolute certainty there has been no landing of Japanese troops anywhere on Java."

Action at sea still was being joined late this afternoon, but informed United Nations sources here said the bulk of the invasion fleet apparently was in the process of reorganizing for a renewed attempt to land troops, probably in the vicinity of the naval base.

The approach of the Japanese sea force was preceded by repeated air raid alarms at Soerabaja, but each time approaching enemy planes were driven off by anti-aircraft fire before bombs could be dropped.

LOSES ON BOTH SIDES

The Dutch said "several tens of ships"—the continental equivalent to "scores"—were in the invaders' strongly-protected convoy first scattered and then pursued by the Allied warships.

Unspecified losses on both sides were acknowledged.

(Reuter's reported to London that the Japanese had sent two expeditionary fleets against Java—one of which headed for Batavia, on the western end of the island, and the other aimed at Soerabaja, on the east.

(The dispatch said the Soerabaja thrust was understood to be in considerable strength.)

The Dutch communique reported two raids on Tandjong Priok—the harbor of Batavia more than four miles from the city.

DOCK WORKERS KILLED

The first raid, at noon, resulted in small material damage, but four dockyard laborers were killed and five were wounded, the communique said. One bomber was reported shot down and another probably damaged.

The second attack came during the afternoon the communique said, all bombs fell into the sea, and four of 12 bombers in the attack were shot down.

(The U. S. Navy Department in Washington announced that Vice-Admiral C. F. Helfrich, acting commander of the ABDA naval forces in the southwest Pacific, had informed it that "certain United States naval units are involved" in the Java sea fight. The U. S. Navy, too, knew "none of the results as yet.")

REDS DOWN BIG RESCUE AIR ARMY

Moscow
Feb. 28 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

By EDDY GILMORE

The Russians reported today they were shooting down big troop transport planes jammed with Nazi soldiers fresh from training in Germany for a spring offensive but who, instead, were rushed to the front in a desperate attempt to reinforce and save the trapped 16th German army near Staraya Russa.

Dispatches declared Russian gunners and fliers were frustrating repeated Nazi efforts to get such troops through and to drop supplies and ammunition to more than 96,000 Germans virtually doomed within the tightening Red Army ring.

The German position was imperiled further by an outward thrust from the Reds' position at Leningrad and by the activity of guerrillas there who were said to have killed 10,480 Germans, including two generals in the past six months.

Increasing Red army pressure at both ends of the long eastern front was indicated in reports of the winter-end Red offensive.

On the north, where the soldiers of Leningrad are laboriously breaking down the Germans' offensive fortifications virtually gun by gun, a broadcast said 1140 more Germans had been killed and an artillery battery and six more pillboxes destroyed.

Order Courts Martial Of Short and Kimmel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Trials by court martial were ordered today for Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commanders in charge of Hawaii at the time of the successful surprise attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor.

MAJ.-GEN. W. C. SHORT

They'll Face Army-Navy Judges

Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox made the announcement.

Stimson said in a brief announcement that on the basis of the findings of the Roberts inquiry commission he had directed the preparation of charges alleging dereliction of duty.

This was the charge made against Admiral Kimmel.

BOTH RELIEVED OF DUTY

Short and Kimmel have been without assignment since they were ordered relieved from their posts by President Roosevelt 10 days after the surprise air raid on the Pacific outpost.

Short's application for voluntary retirement was accepted, effective today, "without condonation of any offense or prejudice to any future disciplinary action."

Kimmel's retirement likewise has been accepted, effective March 1.

The trials, it was said, will not be held until "the public interest and safety" permits.

"The Secretary of War announced today the acceptance, effective Feb. 28, 1942, of the application for retirement of Maj.-Gen. Walter C. Short 'without condonation of any offense or prejudice to any future disciplinary action.'

"The Secretary of War announced at the same time that, based upon the findings of the report of the Roberts commission, he had directed the preparation of charges for the trial by court-martial of Gen. OFFICIALS HERE BACK WILLIAMS' DEFERMENT

Draft deferment of Ted Williams, baseball's leading slugger and storm center of nation-wide controversy, is completely justifiable from a legal point of view and under draft regulations, Lieut.-Col. Ralph M. Smith, assistant director of state headquarters, Selective Service System, declared today.

Williams, who was virtually in the Army, was told to "play ball" by direct ruling of President Roosevelt, and was deferred from Class 1-A to Class 3-A to continue to support his mother.

Quoting the ruling on Classification 3-A, Col. Smith said:

"Any registrant upon whom one or more depend for support in a reasonable manner may be placed in Class 3-A on the basis of such dependency.

"A person shall be considered a dependent only when all the following circumstances exist: It must be a wife, child or parent whose support the registrant has assumed in good faith. The dependent must be a citizen and much in fact depend for reasonable support on the registrant."

EXPLAINS LAW

The words "reasonable support," Col. Smith said, are deliberately used to avoid setting any monetary limit which might work hardship on some dependents.

4 HURT IN EL COLLISION IN ROSLINDALE

Four persons were injured and 78 passengers in a crowded Boston Elevated surface car were shaken today when a 20-ton trailer truck crashed against the car's side at Washington and Cranfield sts., Roslindale.

George Fox, 36, Evington st.; Roslindale, and George Wyatt, 29, of Lindell st., Roslindale, were treated at City Hospital for cuts and bruises and taken to their homes.

Walter Dennis, 66, of Roslindale st., Roslindale, and Frank Morris of Poplar st., Roslindale, were taken to their homes after first aid at the scene.

Morris was hurt when he was struck by the swerving trailer as he waited at the curb for the trolley.

El officials said 80 passengers were in the in-bound car when the huge truck-trailer operated by Ernest Cousino of Covill st., New Bedford, "jack-knifed" as it was brought to a stop alongside the trolley.

Fox, Wyatt and Dennis were hurt when the trailer smashed into the front vestibule. Cousino escaped injury by leaping from his cab when the crash occurred. The truck and trailer were demolished.

25 CANNED VEGETABLE, FRUIT PRICES FROZEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—Seeking to curb an "inflationary trend conducive to speculative withholding, profiteering and hoarding," Price Administrator Henderson today issued an order, effective Monday, temporarily "freezing" wholesale prices of 25 canned fruits and vegetables at the highest level prevailing between Feb. 23 and 27.

Henderson said wholesale prices had increased approximately 20 per cent since last August and retail prices had gone up 10 per cent during the same period, resulting in a need for "protective price regulation for the American housewife and her dinner table."

The order is effective for 60 days until a permanent maximum price ceiling is fixed. Although it applies only to canners and wholesalers, Henderson charged retailers with the responsibility of keeping retail prices at a "reasonable level."

Canned fruits covered by the order are:

Apples, applesauce, apricots, cherries, fruit cocktail, fruit salad, peaches, pears, pineapples and plums.

Fifteen canned vegetables covered by the order are:

Asparagus, dry beans, lima beans, snap beans, beets, carrots corn, peas, pumpkin, sauerkraut, spinach, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, tomato catsup and tomato juice.

Sugar Hoarders Will Be Denied Ration Books

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—Price Administrator Henderson today said no sugar rationing book will be given to any person possessing more than a two months' supply when registration begins the latter part of March.

OPA officials have not determined yet how much sugar will constitute two months' supply.

When the sugar rationing program first was announced, OPA indicated each person probably will be allotted 12 ounces of sugar per week. If this figure is finally agreed upon, a two-months' supply for an individual would be six pounds.

More recently the prospect of an 8-ounce limit has been mentioned which would lower a two months' supply to 4 pounds.

The figures apply to individuals, since rationing books will be issued to every man, woman and child in the United States, except members of the armed forces, inmates of institutions and hospitalized persons.

The rationing books will contain 28 weekly stamps.

Special provisions will be made to provide householders with sugar for home preserving and canning and for certain persons who have to have sugar for medical reasons, Henderson said.

Henderson said one adult may register for each family unit, although a separate ration book will be issued for each member. Servants, lodgers and others who live in a household, but who are not members of a family unit, must register individually.

Shortage of Tires For Rationing Seen

Preliminary reports for the month of February received by State Rationing Administrator Henry Parkman, Jr., indicate that many communities have exhausted their monthly quota of new tires and tubes.

Mr. Parkman pointed out the comparison with the month of January during which the state used up less than one-half of its quota. He emphasized the fact that as time goes on more and more tires will be wearing out and quotas will fall far short of meeting the requirements of those who are entitled to new tires under existing eligibility regulations.

Commission Light Cruiser San Juan Here

Months ahead of schedule, the new $12,000,000 light cruiser San Juan, one of the fastest and most heavily armed ships of its type ever launched, was commissioned today at the Boston naval drydock.

Commander William W. Juvenal, New Rochelle, N. Y., was named executive officer.

The cruiser, launched last September, was the first United States naval craft named for the Puerto Rican capital.

The craft is one of four light cruisers for which contracts were awarded in April, 1939. She was the second of her class to be completed at the Bethlehem Steel Fore River yard, Quincy. Her sister ship, the San Diego, was built there and commissioned Jan. 10.

The keel of the San Juan was laid in May, 1940.

GAS RATION OF 10 GALLONS A WEEK SEEN

By May 1, the ordinary motorist in this area will be rationed to 10 gallons of gasoline a week, or less, it was learned today by the Boston American.

There will be no "curfew" for filling stations, however, as there was last fall throughout the country during the earlier reported oil and gasoline shortage.

According to this newspaper's informant, an official who did not care to have his identity revealed at this time, filling stations will be allowed to remain open their normal week-day and Sunday hour-schedules under rationing.

Nor, it was said, will there be any restrictions as to what the ordinary motorist does with his ration of gasoline each week. He may use it sparingly and spread it out over the week or he may use it all in one splurge of Sunday or holiday riding.

The probability is, however, that defense workers will not be rationed as heavily; that is, the fact that it is imperative that their cars be used in going to and from work will be taken into consideration, with an allowance made above that for recreation riding.

BLAST AT 'LABOR-HATERS' OPENS CIO CONVENTION

WORCESTER, Feb. 28 (AP)—Opening the fifth annual Massachusetts state CIO convention on a keynote of full support to the nation's war effort, President Joseph A. Salerno told some 600 delegates in his opening speech today that employes who "do not co-operate and bargain collectively in good faith are helping Hitler."

"These labor-haters discredit our form of government and help Hitler by preventing democracy from functioning," he declared. "We must fight these Fascists-in-disguise in our own back yard."

Governor Saltonstall called upon labor to maintain "uninterrupted" production as he commended the CIO for adhering to its "no strikes for the duration" pledge.

"There are difficult problems to be settled but work must go on while these questions are discussed," the Governor stated.

"We must, and will, go all out to send weapons and supplies to our men at the front before it is too late."

The tenor of this convention was in sharp contrast to last year's, when the issue of the lend-lease bill split the delegates wide apart. Today, left wing and right wing elements were solidly united behind the President's war program, and President Salerno, apparently opposed by the left wingers last year, sought to heal the wounds by paying tribute to the "gallant armies of the Soviet Union."

Salerno reported that the membership of the Massachusetts CIO had grown approximately one-third during the past year and now stood at 175,000.

Dies Reveals Jap Plot to Overrun U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Reports that Japan and Germany are using air and supply bases close to the American continent reached the Dies committee today following its assertion that the West Coast and Panama Canal "are in the gravest peril" from Japanese attack.

Location of the secret enemy outposts was not disclosed but informed sources said they were strategically placed either for direct action against the Americas or for disrupting vital supply routes.

Committee members, after making public a report summarizing its evidence of Japanese espionage in California, Hawaii and the Canal Zone, called on government agencies to intensify their campaign against the Japanese.

"With these disclosures, there no longer should be any question as to the urgency of very vigorous efforts to remove all Japs and Nazis and Fascists from all coast towns, defense centers and other places where they could disrupt the war program or endanger our security," declared Chairman Dies.

The committee's report was heavily documented and traced the Japanese campaign to "crush the United States."

MALDEN MOTHER RESCUES FOUR OVERCOME BY FUMES

A Malden family of four were overcome by gas fumes today, but saved from possible tragic consequences by a 24-year-old mother, who, although near collapse herself, managed to get to the door and shout a warning to neighbors.

The woman, Mrs. William E. Bettis, wife of a General Electric welder, of Summer ave., was busy with her washing in the kitchen of her home. Her two children, Norman, 17 months, and Kay, 4, were playing on the floor.

Suddenly she noticed one of the children growing pale. She picked the child up, thinking her ill, and then she herself began to feel faint. Entering the living room, she found her husband apparently overcome in a chair.

By now almost exhausted, she managed to get to the front door and scream for help.

A neighbor, Mrs. James Foley, heard the cry, and sent her husband to investigate. He threw open the windows in the Bettis home, and his wife meanwhile called firemen and police.

Cruiser car officers, Francis Maloney and J. Edward Mahoney, successfully revived the children, using the prone method, before firemen arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Bettis revived without aid. The children were taken to Malden Hospital.

NELSON PLANS 24-HR., 7-DAY ARMS OUTPUT

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Spurred on by President Roosevelt's admonition that "the months just ahead are the critical months of the war," War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson today laid down a three-point program to speed up industry by bringing about 24-hour, seven-day operation of every possible defense plant.

Nelson made known his program in response to a letter from the President which emphasized that victory largely will depend upon our ability to accelerate production this spring and summer.

Nelson pledged:

"1—Greater utilization of plants producing war goods, aimed at the maximum of 168 hours work a week for every machine.

"2—Recognition and awards for outstanding industrial accomplishment both by management and labor.

"3—Establishment of joint labor-management war plant committees which will consider suggestions from all quarters for increasing production and which will help demonstrate the importance of our soldiers of production."

3 Gin Rummy Games Played at Same Time

Josephine Culbertson, famed authority on gin rummy, the fascinating card game now sweeping the country, tells today about playing three games at one time.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Several card experts believe that the present popularity of gin rummy is partly attributable to the custom of "playing three games at once." This method is also known as Hollywood gin, because it started in the movie colony in Hollywood, one of the places where the present revival of gin rummy began.

In this variation, gin rummy remains a two-handed game and the two players actually play only one hand at a time. However, they score as though they were playing three games. There are several variations in scoring, but the official laws of the game prescribe the following scoring method:

Suppose "A" and "B" are playing each other. They cut as usual, deal, and play the first hand. "A" wins the first hand by 21 points. This is entered on the score sheet to his credit, and play proceeds.

"A" deals, and "B" wins the second hand by 16 points. The score of this second hand is entered twice; as the second hand of Game One, and as the first hand of Game Two. Now the score sheet looks like this:

Game 1		Game 2
A	B	A	B
21	16		16

PRACTICE SCORING

The third hand is played, and "A" wins again, by 12 points. This third hand, and all hands from now on, are credited to all three games. Thus, the score sheet now looks like this:

Game 1		Game 2		Game 3
A	B	A	B	A	B
21	16	12	16	12
33

Observe that "A" is ahead in Games One and Three, but that "B" is still ahead in Game Two.

The game proceeds. Readers who wish to practice may keep their own score, remembering that when a player wins a hand his winning margin is simply added to his last previous total, for the convenience of always knowing where the players stand. Subsequent hands, let us say, go as follows:

"A" wins by 26 points; then "B" wins by 38 points; then "B" wins by 4 points; then "A" wins by 10 points; then "A" wins by 23 points; then "B" wins by 32 points; then "A" wins by 18 points. At this stage the score is:

Game 1		Game 2		Game 3
A	B	A	B	A	B
21	16	12	16	12	58
33	54	38	54	38	42
59	58	48	58	48	84
69	90	71	90	71
92		89		89

WINS BONUS

In Game One, "A" has passed 100 points and has won the game. This game is scored to his credit: 20 points for the difference in scores, 100 points game bonus, and 40 points for having two more boxes (for having won two more hands) than "B" at 20 points each. "A" wins Game One by 160 points. Play proceeds, but from now on scores will be added only to Games Two and Three. Game One is all over.

Let us say "B" wins the next two hands, by 13 and by 14 points. The first hand gives him a total of 103 points in Game Two, so that he wins Game Two. He gets 14 points for the difference in scores, and 100 points bonus, a total of 114. Since "A" won the first game by 160, "A" is still 46 points ahead.

Now both the first two games are over, and the final score of 14 points is added only to Game Three. It gives "B" a total of 111 points, so that he wins this game also. He gets 22 points for the difference in scores and 100 points bonus, winning by 122 points. On the set of three games, "B" has won by 78 points.

In Games Two and Three, it will be noticed, no box bonus was scored, because "A" and "B" had won exactly the same number of hands

Order Trial for Short, Kimmel

nounced today the acceptance, effective March 1, 1942, of the application for retirement of Rear Admiral H. E. Kimmel, U. S. Navy, 'without condonation of any offense or prejudice to any future disciplinary action.'

"The Secretary of the Navy announced at the same time that, based upon the findings of the report of the Roberts commission, he had directed the preparation of charges for the trial by court-martial of Rear Admiral Kimmel, alleging dereliction of duty. The Secretary of the Navy made it clear, however, that the trial upon these charges would not be held until such time as the public interest and safety would permit."

Kimmel, 60, was born in Henderson, Ky. Under naval regulations he will receive a retired pay of $6000 a year, pending the outcome of the trial. Short, a native of Fillmore, Ill., will be 62 on March 30 and his rank and military service likewise entitles him to retirement with $6000 annual pay.

Short and Kimmel will be tried separately, it was deemed certain.

Under conventional procedure, the trials would be conducted by courts of high ranking admirals and generals, as regulations provide an inferior in rank should not judge a superior where avoidable.

A defendant may rely on a fellow officer for counsel, or use

The court martial itself is empowered by regulations, in most cases, to fix the sentence agreed on, and officials declined to speculate what sentence was possible for dereliction of duty.

Brig. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, outspoken air corps officer, who criticized his superiors and was convicted of insubordination, was ordered relieved of his command and to forfeit pay and allowances, but on appeal President Coolidge commuted the sentence to loss of only half pay. Mitchell immediately resigned.

EXERCISES IN PHYSICAL FITNESS FOR MEMBERS OF JUNIOR ARMY

Below is the fifth of a series of valuable lessons on Physical Fitness, especially prepared for the Junior Victory Army by Joe McKenney, associate director, Physical Education, Boston public schools.

By JOE McKENNEY
LESSON FIVE

While lying on the floor the following corrective exercises should be done:

(1) With knees bent and feet flat on the floor, slowly and carefully extend legs, trying to keep whole of back touching floor, as legs are straightened by contracting and flattening the waist muscles and by keeping the heels on the floor.

This is an excellent exercise for anyone with a lumbar curve.

(2) Prone lying, hands clasped behind back with the elbows straight. While pushing clasped hands backward and downward close to the body and keeping chin in, raise head from the floor and hold for three counts.

Relax—repeat three times. Keep the lower back as flat as possible.

STAND ERECT

This exercise will benefit both chest and shoulders.

(3) While lying on the floor with knees bent and feet flat on floor—grasp the right knee and pull up to chest—lower and repeat with left knee. Now grasp and pull both knees up and hold. Do each movement four times.

To stand erect to one's full height is a posture habit we should all develop.

Corrective exercises from a standing position are very helpful. The following should be practiced repeatedly:

(1) Stand erect with feet apart and hands clasped behind back and elbows straight. Bend trunk downward—raise trunk slowly, flattening waist muscles, pulling chin in and pushing clasped hands downward and backward close to body. Hold stretched position. Repeat three times.

(2) Airplane exercise:

(3) Assume an "A" posture position (see yesterday's lesson); feet parallel, weight forward, waist flat, chest up and forward, chin in, head high. Clench hands and place them on your shoulders, thumbs down. Raise elbows forward and upward to shoulder height, count 1. Then pull elbows forcibly sideways, at shoulder height, keeping hands on shoulders, count 2. Now bring elbows down to sides, count 3. Repeat this exercise in rhythm, 12-24 counts.

(4) Place a bean bag or small book on top of head. Practice walking across room with correct posture, balancing book. Practice this exercise while walking on tiptoe also.

The exercises which I have described from a lying, sitting and standing position, if done daily, should be not only of great value in attaining a correct posture, but also improve the general health of the body.

If your posture is due to an organic defect you should consult your physician.

("How to Strengthen Your Feet" will be explained in the next Physical Fitness lesson in the Evening American Monday.)

Times change—and etiquette with them!

Flowery introductions—"Let me make you acquainted with—" aren't used any more in smart circles and the girl who blunders so seems unused to social life.

Also a popular girl today knows how to introduce her military friends. Military forms are important! The custom now is to introduce a soldier by his title, from corporal up. The higher rank is named first.

'Louisiana Purchase' Cast Arrives Sunday for Opening

"Louisiana Purchase," B. G. DeSylva's musical comedy hit, starring William Gaxton, Vera Zorina, Victor Moore and Irene Bordoni, supported by a company of nearly one hundred, will arrive in Boston, tomorrow afternoon from Washington, D. C., for their opening at the Shubert Theater, Monday evening.

It is the largest production to attempt a road tour in recent years, requiring four 70-foot baggage cars for the scenery, a difficult requirement at present. Unloading will start tomorrow, and 38 stage mechanics will work all night and throughout Monday to hang the heavy drops, units and electrical equipment.

Victor Moore

The original all star cast, full score and complete production will be presented in Boston, as it was for over a year on Broadway and recently for four months in Chicago.

The musical, it may surprise those who take their titles too literally, is not based on the historical, Louisiana Purchase of 1803. It is instead a political satire, of present-day happenings in a much publicized Southern state.

Exciting War Film On Bowdoin Screen

Saboteurs, a newspaperman portrayed by Don Ameche and a British Ministry of Information typist played by Joan Bennett are excitingly involved in "Confirm or Deny," the Bowdoin screen's new attraction through Tuesday. On the same bill is "Harvard Here I Come," featuring "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom.

Comedy Headlines Beacon's New Bill

"Rise and Shine," the film comedy with Jack Oakie, Walter Brennan and Linda Darnell, is to be seen at the Beacon tomorrow and through Wednesday. The co-feature will be "The Kid From Kansas," with Dick Foran, Leo Carrillo and Andy Devine as three mosquiteers of the wild west.

DICK POWELL LURES FLAMING YOUTH TO RKO BOSTON THEATER SHOW

Film 'Ride 'Em Cowboy' Helps

By PEGGY DOYLE

The shrewd teaming of Hollywood's debonair Dick Powell, in person, and Universal's newest Abbott and Costello comedy, "Ride 'Em, Cowboy," brought out the SRO signs in the RKO-Boston lobby yesterday.

It was the biggest opening at the Keith vaudeville house since that opener of openers, the September noon Glenn Miller and his orchestra took over the stage and mowed down all box office records.

And the youthful customers got what they wanted, if the thunderous applause that welcomed Powell on his first Hub visit and the cannonading of laughter that drowned out half of the Abbott and Costello repartee are an indication.

Billed as "Hollywood's favorite singing star," the troubadour who was made for technicolor, with his crisp blond hair, flag-blue eyes and sun-kissed complexion, brought his most suave "mike" manner, a medley of old and new songs he's sung through the years, a skill with the saxophone, clarinet and trumpet and one of radio's and the screen's favorite singing voices to RKO Boston audiences. From now on he can count himself one of Boston's favorite singing stars.

MEDLEY OF SONGS

"Plenty of Money and You," "Happiness Ahead," "Shipmates Stand Together," in fact nearly every song he has ever sung in pictures, were included in the screen star's medley number. "Rose O'Day" and "White Cliffs of Dover" and "Thanks a Million," the closing number, were audience favorites.

The Three Martels and Mignon, adagio stars of the "Folies Bergere"; Jean Carroll and Buddy Howe, offering amusing dialogue; the Three Hollywood Blondes, with their eye-popping roller-skating, and Fred Sanborn, the pop-eyed comic, who makes with magic and the xylophone, assisted by Charles Lawrence, were all highly amusing.

The screen attraction, "Ride 'Em, Cowboy," gives the Abbott and Costello comedy a dude ranch setting, and that's all right with us if they hadn't duded up the picture with those out-of-key production numbers. These slow the action by keeping the little fat one and his lank belittler off screen, which is grounds for litigation in my Blackstone.

GAGS AND GA GA

There are some bewhiskered gags, including some burleycue oldies, but these lads have a way of making them fresh as a May morning.

Dick Foran, the singing cowboy; Ella Fitzgerald, principally when she is giving "Tisket, Tasket" a nice, chocolate flavor; Anne Gwynne, the oomphish cowgirl, and the rhythmic Merry Macs are all good. However, your reviewer's pet sequence was when Costello's eyelashes entangled with his eyebrows as he found himself astride a bucking bronco through no fault of his own.

BETTY FIELD and Robert Cummings in "Kings Row," Warner's horror hit which has outvoted the Broadway critics and is now in its fourth week at the Astor. It is due to follow "Song of the Islands" on the Met screen.

Opera Season Highlights

The Metropolitan Opera Association's forthcoming season at the Metropolitan Theater, from March 19 to 28, will offer a number of interesting highlights, notably the local debuts of the Swedish-American soprano, Astrid Varnay; the Met's celebrated tenor, Jan Peerce; Lily Djanel, formerly of the Paris Opera Comique, and Sir Thomas Beecham, the eminent English conductor.

Miss Varnay will be heard as Elsa in "Lohengrin," which will open the Met's opera season here on Thursday evening, March 19.

On Saturday afternoon, March 21, Jan Peerce will be heard for the first time in opera here when he sings the leading role in "La Traviata." That evening will find Frank St. Leger, former conductor of the Chicago Opera Company, conducting "Barber of Seville."

On Monday evening, March 23, Gluck's "Orfeo," with Bruno Walter conducting, will be given its initial Hub performance. Kerstin Thorborg and Jarmila Novotna, Czech soprano, will head the all-star cast.

New Haven Test For Musical

Irving Caeser's new musical, "My Dear Public," which will be seen at the Colonial Theater for one week starting Monday evening, March 9, will have a dress rehearsal at New Haven's Shubert Theater on Wednesday evening. The musical features Mitzi Green, John Buckmaster, Tamara, Joe Smith, Charles Dale and Cora Witherspoon.

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—There's no more successful glamour-style than a veiled hat . . . yet if your eyes lose their kilowatt power behind a veil . . . heed Arline Gould's instructions on how to make the most of their beauty. Ruth Warrick models this de-lovely veiled hat with three meshes all woven in one!

INEXPENSIVE EYE BEAUTY AIDS FOR MAKE-UP TRICKS

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU MAY BE ONE of those girls whose eyes are almost never without a surrounding pool of shadow . . . with the skin around them as fresh and untinged by violet as a baby's . . . and yet they may be impolitely termed uninteresting and short on glamour! 'Tisn't fair . . . but so advanced, so cunning, is the present-day method of eye makeup that it's practically a necessity . . . if you want eyes that are romantically provocative!

No longer does eye makeup work to only one end . . . that of giving an exotic effect! Eye makeup is used to correct feature faults . . . It can keep your glance as artlessly young and unsophisticated as ever. If you want it merely for emphasis . . . use it accordingly.

Deep-set eyes disregard colored eye shadows . . . but they will gain in freshness particularly if shadows are naturally there, if you use a transparent oil on them, but lightly. Then curl up your lashes as high as they'll go . . . and thicken the eyebrows, even faking thickness if you must. Have you ever noticed how cleverly the deliciously glamorous Gloria di Cicco lets her heavy eyebrows call attention away from the comparative smallness of her eyes?

Prominent eyes NEED the shadow that comes out of a little pastille of a box. Soft gray-blue, violet or neutral brown eyeshadow belongs to them. And if the eyelids are big as barn doors . . . create an effect of width by narrowing the path of the shadow at the base of the eyelashes, then bringing it out at the outer corners of the eyes to meet the eyebrows. Blend very carefully so all borders fade gradually.

Widely-set eyes should have shadow ONLY at the inner corners . . . mascara should be concentrated there . . . and if eyebrows don't grow in toward the nose . . . fake 'em!

Don't EVER use mascara, shadow or eye pencil beneath the eyes. Just DON'T!

To learn the name of the very fine and quite inexpensive eye beauty aids which may be successfully used for these makeup tricks . . . phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

A KNOWLEDGE OF GOURMET cookery is going to stand us in good stead now that the budget holds us down to the simplest and least expensive foods. The cook who understands the principle of seasoning can make hamburger taste like filet mignon. Of course, even chopped beef isn't so inexpensive these days, and it can become tiresome.

Here's a way to give it something new—by combining it with lamb and pork and making it into a stuffed meat loaf. This is a dish you need not hesitate to serve at a company dinner. It serves six, easily—with some left over. It's good cold, too.

STUFFED MEAT LOAF

1 lb. each ground lamb, pork and beef
1 tbsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 eggs

STUFFING

6 cups toasted white bread cubes
½ cup minced onion
¾ cup raisins
3 tbsp. minced parsley
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. sage
1 cup soup stock or water

Have the butcher grind meats together. Season and blend with eggs. Pat into 12x12-inch square on wax paper. Rinse raisins, drain and blend with remaining stuffing ingredients and spread over meat. Roll as for jelly roll. Place in greased pan and brush with fat. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1¾ to 2 hours. Serve hot with tomato sauce. Makes 6 servings.

The sugar now allowed us is certainly sufficient from a nutrition standpoint, and more than that permitted the comparatively well-fed English people. We hope you put up your own jams and jellies next summer, as the jam closet will come to your aid many times when you need something for sweetening. Buy honey in 10-pound cans for kitchen use and have a fat jar of it for the table. It's delicious as a beverage sweetener. Molasses is another natural, as is corn syrup.

Now, how about a dessert light on sugar that teams up well with spices?

LIGHTNING SPICE CAKE WITH CINNAMON HONEY TOP

2 cups cake flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cloves
1-3 cup soft (but not oily) butter
½ cup honey
½ cup sugar
1-3 cup coffee
2 eggs, well beaten

Sift dry ingredients into large mixing bowl. To well-beaten eggs add soft butter, honey, sugar and cool coffee. Mix. Stir into center of dry ingredients. Mix. Then beat vigorously 2 minutes—by the clock. Pour into greased and paper-lined baking pan (6x10 inches). Cover top with crumb topping. Drip (or trickle) 2 additional tablespoons of honey over top. Bake in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Serve as a coffee bread.

To make crumb topping: Mix 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 tbsp. melted butter, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1 tbsp. flour and ¼ cup honey.

HONEY APPLESAUCE CAKE

1-3 cup butter or lard
¾ cup strained honey
1 cup applesauce (hot)
1 to 1½ cups flour
1 cup chopped and seeded raisins
½ cup chopped nut meats
1 tsp. soda
1 tbsp. hot water
¼ tsp. each cloves, ginger, cinnamon and mace

Cream the shortening with the honey and add the warm applesauce. Sift the flour and spices together and sprinkle over the chopped raisins and nut meats, then mix all the ingredients. Dissolve the soda in the hot water and whip in at the very last. The cake is baked in a loaf pan for about 1 hour. For a finish, sprinkle with granulated sugar and leave in the oven to take on a beautiful glaze.

When you discard a cigarette be sure to extinguish it. The odor of a smoldering cigarette stub is annoying and even a tiny spark is dangerous.

Fashion

DID YOU EVER see quite so many crocheted caps around? And have you ever seen such a dearth of originality about most of them? It seems that so many gals are content to clap on a round beanie, and call it a day. Not you! With your little crochet hook you'll run up this individual little number with the cute fake earlaps! It's just as easy to make as the less unique numbers. Nothing daunted, you'll wear these ear-warmers right into spring and summer. That bunch of colorful yarn is awfully becoming. For your set of crocheting directions, just write Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Boston Evening American, and please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

APRON DRESSES, LOOSE COATS THE STYLE NOW

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE will be plenty of really springlike ensembles in the stores from now on, and there is no lack of fashion ideas in them. They have been readied by designers for a Spring when women will be busier than ever, but I can assure you in advance that you won't complain that they are dull.

Many of the prettiest ensembles make use of combinations of printed and one-color materials, and I notice that a good many dresses are apron dresses. I also want to report that loose coats are very much in style, as are loose jackets. This is in the interest of comfort, and the loose lines look good.

Miss Dulin has made a sketch of one of the Spring ensembles with these features. The coat is made of smooth dark blue wool, and it has a full length stole collar that is faced with very gay printed silk, in purple, green, blue and red.

The same print makes an apron bordered with plain blue silk on the slim dress, and is also set in the waist of the dress, below a tucked

War Calls for Extra Charity Work

By ELEANR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, FRIDAY—Today I am going to speak for the United Jewish Appeal Campaign. Like every other charitable and civic group, no matter how well established, they find that a great many people do not associate the carrying on of their usual community activities with the winning of the war. In some cases, I am told, there is not only a tendency to lower the financial contributions, but a tendency to cut down on the amount of volunteer service which people usually have given.

Somehow, we have failed as yet quite to realize the fact, that part of winning the war is to strengthen our community services, civic and charitable, in every way possible, because the demands are greater than before. True, they may be different for in many cases people are obtaining work. But there are still cases of unemployment for a variety of reasons, and many more cases of people whose men are in the services, and who are undergoing physical hardship and mental anguish.

I look at the present situation in the following way:

First of all, so far as we are able, we should give a little more to every agency we have supported in the past. What we give in contributions to the war, such as increased Red Cross, USO, Army and Navy relief, should be above and beyond what we have given in the past. Our investments in defense bonds and stamps, should be regarded as investments, not as gifts, except where we buy them for charitable purposes and do not hold them ourselves.

SECONDLY, I think we should continue to give what time we have in the past to the organizations in which he have served. Our war contributions should be over and above our normal activities. This should be accomplished by better organization of our time, by planning to give less time to unimportant things and by remembering that leisure moments are a gift which few people can enjoy in times of stress.

I do not mean that we must not have some recreation and relaxation, but it must come after the work we are physically able to do, is done. Many people do not plan and so spend more hours doing things than is necessary. Busy days like the present are a challenge to our ability to organize ourselves, as well as the work we may be able to do in addition to our normal occupations.

Smart Set Functions

CUPID has scored more direct hits among this season's debs than in any previous year . . . There have been several weddings among the group, any number of the debs are wearing sparkling diamond engagement rings and we already know of several more romances to be announced within the next few weeks . . .

This afternoon, Mrs. Thomas Slade of Boston is joining forces with Mr. and Mrs. A. Barr Comstock of Cambridge in giving a tea to announce the engagement of Mrs. Slade's debutante daughter, Martha Leonard, to Mark Sumner Eaton of Boston . . .

Martha attended the May School, graduated from Buckingham and belongs to the Junior League . . . Her sisters are Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, Jr., and Mrs. David Wicks . . .

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra S. Eaton of Boston and Florida, is soon joining the armed forces . . .

A BEAUTIFUL COLOR scheme of American Beauty red and palest ice blue has been designed for the costumes of the large bevy of attendants taking part in the wedding of Beverly Warren Smith this afternoon . . .

Beverley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Willard Smith of Brookline, becomes the bride of Richard Hallett Lovell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Lovell of Newtonville, at a fashionable ceremony in Harvard Church, Brookline . . . Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt is performing the 4 o'clock ceremony which is followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents . . .

Given in marriage by her father, the attractive bride is wearing traditional ivory satin with yards of train and tulle veiling attached to a cap of heirloom lace belonging to the bridegroom's mother . . . Her feathery bouquet combines white bouvardia, buddlea and roses.

Alison Warren Smith, a debutante of this season, is maid of honor and a younger sister, Jocelyn Winslow Smith, one of the bridesmaids . . . The other attendants are Mary Jane Kopperud of Omaha, Neb., Esther T. Gleason of Montpelier, Vt., Molly Pratt of New York, Beatrice Talbot of Brookline and Mrs. Stanton Loring (Jessica Ann Stevens), a recent bride, all of whom were Vassar classmates of today's bride . . . Also taking part as bridesmaids are Katharine MacAusland and Mary Lou French who were Beverley's Winsor School classmates . . .

The maid of honor is carrying an arm bouquet of American Beauties with her gown of ice blue faille and her hat is a modish little creation of matching blue faille bows . . . The bridesmaids' outfits are of American Beauty faille and they are carrying white snapdragon . . .

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, is receiving in a gown of violet blue with a matching hat trimmed with touches of American Beauty and wearing a corsage of anenomes in the same vibrant shades . . . Mrs. Lovell has chosen a costume of periwinkle blue . . .

Saturday, Feb. 28, 1942

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—Steadfast in disposition, loyal to duty; methodical and practical in reaching conclusions. Although much capability is inherent in you, you could very easily, if not stirred to action, fail both to recognize your talents and to use them. Once ambition and incentive are aroused, there is no stopping you on the road to achievement—and may you stay ambitious, and keep your purposes always aimed at the honorable goals!

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 37.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is sage green.

Hasty Pudding Club as Host

Even best friends had difficulty recognizing each other last evening at the Hasty Pudding C'ub's annual costume ball at the Pudding Clubhouse in Cambridge.

Disguises ranged in variety from Chinamen to ragamuffins, and some of the season's most glamorous blonde debutantes were unrecognizable in long black wigs.

Patronesses for the dance were Mrs. Nathaniel Clark, Mrs. William Brace Pratt and Mrs. Albert Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Fellowes Davis and Mr. and Mrs. William Sohier were hosts at large dinner parties preceding the dance.

Among the many youthful dancers enjoying the hilarity were Harriet Moffat who was escorted by Edgar S. Gilchrest, True Storey with John Howard, Barbara Higginson with Ford King, Patricia Converse with Bili Albers, Edith Sohier Shaw with Julian Clark, Nancy Roosevelt with Richard Hunnewell, Margaret Cunningham with Kirkham Cornwall and Mary McCagg with Worthington Campbell.

No Federal Job For Mrs. F.D.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says she will not take any more government positions while her husband is President.

Asked whether she would be associated with a proposed women's auxiliary air corps, as had been reported, the First Lady said she would not become the head of that organization "or otherwise take public office again."

"I can't take a government position because of my being the President's wife," she added. "I found that out."

Mrs. Roosevelt, who recently resigned as an assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense, gave her comment before boarding a plane for Seattle to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger.

The Masked Jury
SHOULD SHE TELL?

BEST FRIEND PROBLEM

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I hesitate to write this letter for fear of sounding like a male busybody, but my friendship for a certain couple has become very much involved with what I fear is a decision I must soon make.

My two best friends, now married five years, have reached that stage when their marriage may at any moment end on the rocks.

The husband, who is forced to travel considerably, is now away from home on a trip and I know that he left during a quarrel. His wife, who is otherwise a fine and sensible girl, met a young man recently—a typical glamor boy—and I'm afraid an infatuation has begun. So far the infatuation has remained in the harmless stage, but it is one of those things which could get out of bounds.

If her husband came home and they made up their quarrel, their marriage would settle back into its former happy stride. Apparently each one is waiting for the other to make the first move. But if he doesn't come back soon, I would be reluctant to predict what may develop. I hate to see two intelligent people, who love each other and are best suited together, wreck their lives so casually.

I have wanted to write the husband and ask him to come back, and yet doing a thing like that seems distasteful to me. I believe I could save this marriage if they did, but I also know that friends can be misunderstood.

Do you think I should tell this husband what is going on and try to save their marriage?—Euripides.

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Women: Yes, two—No, four.
Men: Yes, two—No, four.

ARCHITECT: Yes, if their friendship is close enough and of long standing.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes. His letter doesn't sound like a busybody to me. I think he could decently write the husband and ask him to come home.

CARTOONIST: No, I'm afraid not. Somehow or other people must work out their own lives, no matter how or where they end.

SECRETARY: Yes, if he can bring back the husband in some manner that wouldn't appear so dreadfully urgent.

SALES EXECUTIVE: No. He might mean well but the interpretation is often different from the intent.

ACTRESS: No. Never involve yourself in somebody else's marriage. It's a hopeless form of chivalry.

HOTEL MANAGER: No. Flagging a wife with an infatuation is too much like flagging an express train.

BUYER: (woman): No. It would only arouse the husband's suspicions to a point where they never would reconcile.

COPY WRITER: No. As far as I'm concerned he is a kibitzer.

HOUSEWIFE: No. Not unless one or the other of them seeks his advice.

BUSINESS EXECUTIVE: Yes, providing he can find a smart way of handling the situation.

HOUSEWIFE: No. People never believe your real reasons for doing a thing like that.

JAPAN'S DRAIN ON MANPOWER..

THE size of Japan's armed force has become one of the greatest riddles. She has thrown men recklessly and relentlessly into battle, spread them along a front far greater than Germany's, and still has more for new aggression.

The question, of course, is "How many?"

An exact appraisal—one beyond question—is impossible for obvious reasons. But careful study of communiques, coupled with the estimates of men who lived long in the Orient, permit an approximation.

Pre-war estimates of 2,500,000 Japanese under arms have been doubled, the drastic upward revision based both on developments and the observations of men in the Far East. Reliable observers believe that Japan had some 5,000,000 men prepared for action when she struck at Pearl Harbor.

Stories from the battle fronts, the communiques, hints by Japan herself, tell the rest of the story.

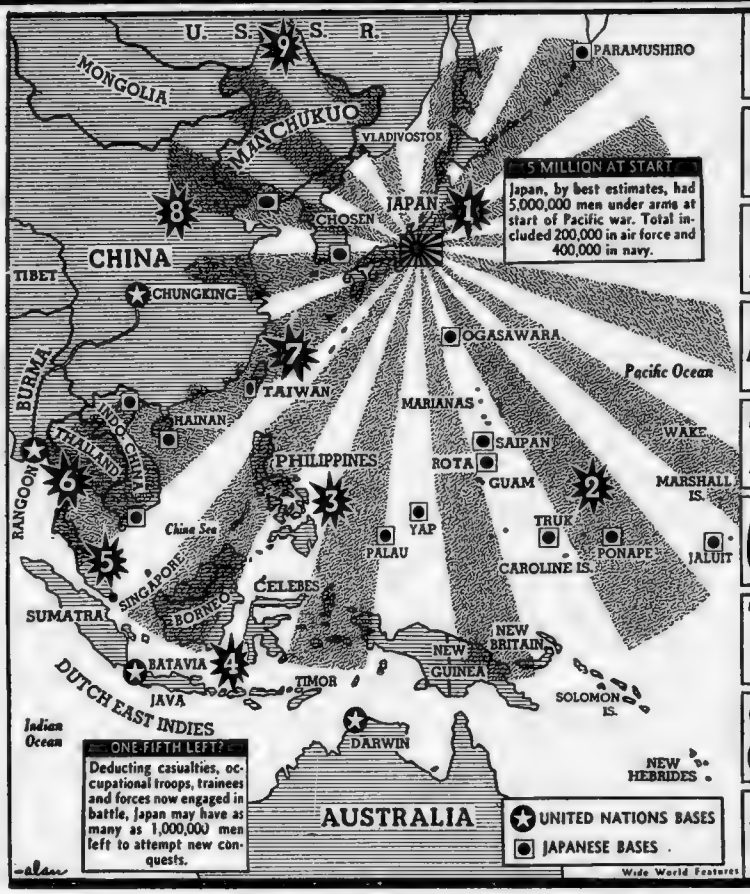
TO offset the threat of new counter-action in China, and to match the first-line Russian forces in Siberia, Japan must write off one-fifth of her army. She likewise cannot keep the half-million square miles of Thailand and Indo-China secure with less than 100,000 soldiers, probably requires nearly as many men to garrison her hundreds of outlying island bases and supply depots, including those captured.

Estimates of the forces seeking to budge Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines have ranged from 200,000 to upwards of a half million; the lower figure seems most likely to be correct. The battles for Malaya and Singapore took a tremendous toll, probably drew, with present Burma campaign, more than a quarter million.

GREATEST enigma of all is the vast army fanning through the Indies—in Borneo, in New Britain, in Celebes, in Ceram, in Sumatra, and now on the threshold of Java. It seems doubtful if less than 200,000 men could acquire and hold these islands—certainly a force as great as that in the Philippines is needed.

Since no army can be stronger than its reserves, Japan must keep its training camps filled, her recruiting machinery in continuous operation.

Japan's industrial stronghold, the core of her war power, is concentrated on the island of Honshu and must be defended against all eventualities. This vital area alone is the size of Minnesota; it and the other main islands are spread over 149,000 square miles. Japan could not truly consider them secure with less than a half million men on guard.



1 To keep her home islands safe from invasion, Japan must maintain defense force of at least 600,000. Much of navy personnel is stationed at home bases, too.

2 Supply depots and outlying bases must be garrisoned strongly. Such forces probably total 100,000 men, including those stationed on captured islands.

3 Invasion of Philippines, military experts believe, was carried out by army of 200,000. As long as Gen. MacArthur holds out, most of force must stay there.

4 Forces fanning out through Indies are terrific drain on manpower. Estimated 200,000 men originally sent to area were reinforced from other fronts but need still more support.

5 Battle for Malaya and Singapore cost Japan thousands of men, required force of about 200,000. Great army will be needed to occupy and retain territory.

6 Occupational force of 100,000 probably required to hold Indo-China and Thailand safely. Troops used in invasion of Burma also total at least 100,000.

7 Training camps of Japan are schooling 800,000 men or more, many on Taiwan and Hainan islands. Industries and agriculture of home country are in need of workers.

8 Four-year war in China, drawing heavily on reserves, now keeps about 600,000 Japanese engaged. Recent Chinese gains may take soldiers from other theaters.

9 One-tenth of army, or 500,000 men, reportedly stationed in Manchukuo to offset Russia. Natives, of Chinese origin, mobilized for labor battalions.

THE casualties, the armies of occupation, garrisons, trainees, and the forces now locked in battle probably account for four-fifths of Japan's 5,000,000 men under arms. The fury of her continued thrusts is one indication she expects to use the remainder—perhaps in Australia, in India, or even beyond.

Replacements may be difficult since Nipponese industries and agriculture already suffer from a shortage of workers. The periodical suppression of revolts in Manchukuo, Formosa and Korea throws serious doubt on the nation's ability to draw on subjugated peoples, particularly for combat service.

TOKYO CLAIMS GUNS ON WAKE FIRE CRUISERS

ENEMY REPORT

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Feb. 28 (AP)—Imperial headquarters said today that guns on Japanese-held Wake Island set fire to an enemy cruiser when a naval squadron consisting of an aircraft carrier, two cruisers and six destroyers were sighted near it at dawn Feb. 24.

The announcement did not give the fleet's nationality

A destroyer was hit with bombs, it said, while Japanese naval planes also dropped bombs on a large cruiser and shot down five planes

It acknowledged only the loss of a Japanese patrol boat, slight damage to land installations on the island, and casualties—some of them fatal—to several Japanese soldiers.

Imperial headquarters referred to Wake as "Otori Island," the name the Japanese gave it after its capture.

Hitler Shakes Up Production Staff

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 28 (AP)—Friends and collaborators of Hitler and Goering have been placed in key positions on Hitler's economic general staff in a shakeup to increase war production.

The Zurich publication, Die Weltwoche, said Jacob Werlin in January was named general inspector of the auto car industry because Hitler wanted to increase the output of tanks, motorcycles and trucks.

The toughest job, secretary of labor, was entrusted to the Essener industrialist, Dr. Werner Mansfield. Dr. Hans Fischboeck, associated with Goering in the four-year plan, became commissioner of price-fixing.

Die Weltwoche said a half-million schoolboys who will be graduated on Easter had been assigned to various work groups.

U. S. 'Flying Tigers' Bag 47 Jap Planes

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 28 (AP)—Destruction of 47 Japanese planes and damage to seven others that probably boosted the toll to 54 was credited officially today to American volunteers "Flying Tigers" in two days of action over Rangoon.

A communique said a handful of men from the United States, flying Curtiss Tomahawk planes had gained the victories, fighting off raids against Burma's capital Tuesday and Wednesday. It mentioned only one American pilot as missing, and said he was believed to have made a forced landing 20 miles from Rangoon.

Siamese Twin Babies Die

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—Death came to the Siamese twin daughters born here to Mrs. Jessie Picciotto after 39 hours of life, with respiratory failure tentatively assigned as the cause.

Dr. Peter Timpone, who delivered them, said an autopsy would be held. Born shortly after midnight Thursday at St. Vincent's hospital, Staten Island, they were fed through a medicine dropper and given oxygen.

Weighing a total of nine pounds, four ounces, the twins were face to face and joined from a point just below the chest to about an inch below the navel.

AEF Boys in Ulster Can Join in Singing "How Dry I Am!"

BELFAST, Feb. 28 (AP)—American troops in northern Ireland are commenting drily on the shortage of beer, whiskey and gin in Ulster.

Eire's ban on the export of beer has left the pubs with nothing but sympathy to offer thirsty customers. Whiskey and gin already are short throughout Britain.

Many pub owners will be out of stock by the week-end and began suggesting street demonstrations to demand government action.

Axis Patrols Beaten in Libya

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 28 (AP)—Strong Axis patrols, including tanks in at least one case, were shelled and dispersed by British Imperial forces yesterday in eastern Libya, general headquarters announced today.

The British had substantial air support in this action, a communique said.

It said that "due to improved visibility, patrol activity on both sides was on a much wider scale yesterday."

U.S. TANKER SURVIVORS REACH SHORE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The list of announced ship sinkings in the Atlantic coastal waters where Axis submarines prowl totaled 41 today with Navy disclosure that two more American tankers had been torpedoed.

Simultaneously came reports of the sinking of a huge British merchantman by a submarine in the North Atlantic, with the probable loss of 58 lives, and the torpedoing of the 7224-ton British freighter Scottish Star about 850 miles east of Barbados, a British Caribbean island. Fifty-six men were missing from the Scottish Star's crew of 72

An Axis U-boat, its running lights aglow, turned the loaded Standard Oil tanker R. P. Resor into an inferno with one torpedo hit early yesterday 20 miles off Manasquan, N. J., in one of the war's most daring raids.

One body was recovered. It was identified today as that of Harold Benton West, 37, Houston, Tex.

Only one survivor, Frank Leonard Terry, 23, of Lansford, Pa., reached shore

Survivor Faints On American Soil

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 28 (AP)—Hugh I. Stewart, carpenter of the torpedoed British tanker La Carriere, reached the Puerto Rican coast last night alone in a lifeboat, and when he was told he was on American soil he gasped "Thank God," and fainted.

Another lifeboat, the last that was missing from the 5685-ton tanker which sank off Puerto Rico Wednesday, was found washed ashore today—empty except for ship's stores and 11 life preservers.

Altogether 24 survivors have reached here. Fifteen of the crew are missing.

2 Bay State Men Aboard R. P. Resor

Two Massachusetts men were aboard the torpedoed tanker R. P. Resor, which burned at sea, yesterday, 20 miles off the New Jersey coast.

They are Robert J. Connors, second mate, son of Mrs. Katherine Connors of Thissell st., Beverly, and Edwin P. Davis, 22, third assistant engineer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Harwich st., New Bedford, who had served on the tanker for the past six years.

British Ship Sunk Off Dominican Coast

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 28 (AP)—The newspaper Nacion reported today that two submarines had sunk the 4015-ton British steamship MacGregor in the Caribbean, 15 miles off the northern Dominican coast.

The Dominican coast guard was said to have picked up 30 survivors. One crewman was lost.

JAP FLEET FORCED BACK OFF JAVA

and Borneo, where the Japanese have landed.

TWO SEA APPROACHES

There were two likely approaches for the Japanese, now that Singapore has fallen. Their warships might have entered the sea by the Macassar strait, to the east of Borneo, or by sailing between Sumatra and Borneo, to the northwest of Java.

The Dutch report gave no more definite location than the Java sea, but there was the possibility that the Japanese ships were those which the Allied air force pasted hard yesterday in the waters near Bangka island, off Sumatra's southeast coast.

With "many thousands" of United States, British and Australian troops in Java, the island has been preparing for Japanese invasion attempts, heralded by heavy bombings of various points of military and strategic importance.

Oddities In the News

COAL FACT

TORRINGTON, Ct., Feb. 28 (AP)—Include one ton of coal in the expense this city would incur from an air raid.

That is the amount estimated as necessary to generate the steam to blow the 10 factory whistles used to sound the alarm and the all-clear.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

UNION, S. C., Feb. 28 (AP)—James H. Arthur, a traveling salesman, inserted this want ad in a newspaper:

"Wanted—If somebody won't sell me a couple of 600x16 tires of some description soon, I am going to have two pretty good tires for sale."

WHERE THERE'S A WILL--

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 28 (AP)—Daniel Jones told Federal Judge Colin Neblett he had heard the Army needed tough men—and he wanted to be a sergeant.

That's why, Jones explained, he falsely wrote in his selective service questionnaire under felony convictions:

"I murdered a man."

The judge placed Jones on probation with the stipulation that if the Army took him, charges would be dismissed.

WHAT A BREAK!

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Schreiner was robbed of her $350 Norwegian blue fox fur coat, but she wasn't upset very much.

She told police she recently became allergic to fur and couldn't wear the garment anyway.

RAF Blasts Naval Bases

LONDON, Feb. 28 (AP)—British bombers seeking out the berths of the already damaged 26,000-ton German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst struck by moonlight last night at the great naval bases of Kiel and Wilhelmshaven in a developing campaign to hold the Nazi fleet at home and hit it there.

The raid, described as effective because of an improvement in weather over the continent, was the third in succession on Kiel, where the Gneisenau is reported in a floating dock. The Scharnhorst is reported at Wilhelmshaven.

Navy Boat Built In 63 Days

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—A submarine combat ship, its keel laid three weeks after Pearl Harbor and built in the record time of 63 days, slid into the water today under the sponsorship of the wife of a naval hero.

As the vessel—the PC-487—was sliding down the ways a crane swung the keel piece for PC-600, its successor, into position.

Mrs. John D. Bulkeley christened the PC-487. She is the wife of the naval lieutenant who on Jan. 7 drove a motor torpedoboat into Binanga bay in the Philippines to torpedo a 9000-ton Japanese ship.

SUB BLASTS U. S. TANKER OFF NEW JERSEY

One Torpedo Hit Converts Vessel Into Inferno . . . and 39 of Crew Are Lost

Army Air Force Photo from International News Photograph Service

Fire Death for Tanker—Smashed by a raiding U-boat's torpedoes, the American tanker R. P. Resor burns fiercely off the coast of New Jersey . . . a spectacle which was seen by scores from the shore. Of the tanker's crew of 41, only two were known to have survived. The ship, eight days out of Texas, was bound for Fall River when attacked.

BLAZING TANKER DRIFTS OUT TO SEA . . . DOOMED BY U-BOAT'S TORPEDO HITS

OUR DAILY CITATION: To General Douglas MacArthur and his hard-fighting army for taking the initiative from the Japanese invaders of Bataan and pushing them back as much as five miles. We are going to win this war. MacArthur and his men are showing us how.

THE Lockheed Aircraft Corporation is displaying a model of a super-transport which its Los Angeles factory is building for Trans-Continental & Western Airlines.

This marvelous winged "train" will lift 57 passengers 30,000 feet into the air and carry them more than 4000 miles without a stop.

So rapidly will it sweep through the air that a man may be in Boston on Sunday and in Bristol, Eng., on Monday.

Such breath-taking speed is a far cry from the leisurely voyages of our grandparents who considered themselves fortunate if they crossed the Atlantic in 40 days.

But it is certainly not too fast for present-day needs.

We could use the Lockheed plane and a thousand like it to transport soldiers and supplies to General MacArthur in the beleaguered Philippines.

A CRIPPLED YOUTH who went to college, overcame the handicap of a paralyzed arm and pushed bravely ahead to become one of the finest squash racquet players in Harvard University history has been deservedly called "Athlete of the Year."

The young man is Eugene Nickerson of Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Five years ago he suffered an attack of infantile paralysis which made his right arm practically useless.

But we shall let Bill Bingham, Harvard's athletic director, tell the story.

"During Nickerson's freshman and sophomore years his afflicted arm was supported by a brace," Bill Bingham says.

"He learned to play squash racquets with his left hand, and by his junior year he was the 13th best squash player in Harvard.

"Thus encouraged, Nickerson continued further to develop the muscles in his left arm, and by February of last year he was the No. 1 player on the varsity team."

There is a good lesson here for all of us, for young people particularly.

No one is ever defeated until he accepts defeat.

And the muscles in the left arm are not the only ones that can be strengthened and developed by use and exercise.

It is also possible to do equally wonderful things with the too often neglected brain.

WHITE SHIRTS, especially the dazzling variety that looks so well with evening attire, are going to be numbered among the new war casualties.

The War Production Board has clamped drastic restrictions on the use of chlorine in laundry operations. That means less bleaching. Shirts which have become "yellowed" will have to remain that way.

Similarly affected will be the linen and duck suits that have become increasingly popular in summertime.

However, most men will accept the sacrifice without too much grumbling.

After all, a shirt can be clean even if its color is a bit yellowish, and an originally white suit can always be dyed brown, blue or black.

But what will the Senators and Congressmen do—they who love to be seen in shirts with glistening bosoms?

Life is indeed hard on the poor law-makers. First they lose their pensions. And now it is their shirts!

SIAMESE TWINS—baby girls born Thursday to a New York city mother—baffled attending physicians.

Rectifying Nature's phenomenon might kill one or both of the children. But nature spared the doctors a trying ordeal and the twins died yesterday within 30 seconds of each other.

Surgeons found themselves in a similar dilemma when Violet and Daisy Hilton of Holyoke were born a generation ago. The decision was no operation. So these girls, now grown to charming womanhood, are still joined together.

Chang and Eng, the "original Siamese twins," lived normal lives in spite of the fact that flesh bound them to each other. The pair married. Eng had five children, Chang six.

When Eng fell ill and died, Chang followed in less than an hour.

Surgery could not dissolve the union that Nature had established at the brothers' birth.

STRICTLY TABOO from now on will be petty jealousies and silly fads in the Massachusetts Women's Defense Corps.

Maj.-Gen. Daniel Needham, who has direct charge of the Corps, says that women may wear semi-military garb only while on duty and that those who sign up because of a desire to lock smart rather than to do good work will have to take a back seat or get out altogether.

Our sympathy is with the women. A small minority may be motivated by a wish to appear chic and pretty in uniforms, but the great majority of Defense Corps members are provenly sincere and patriotic.

They have shown that by the hard tasks they have accepted without complaint and always efficiently performed.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

The flame of anger,
Bright and brief,
Sharpens the barb of love.
—W. S. LANDOR.

COUPLES who boast never a cross word passes between them are just revealing they don't really love each other. However, as Mr. Landor suggests, quarrels should be "bright and brief." Charles Lamb said they should last no longer than a minute. But how to cease being angry after a minute is a problem. Benjamin Franklin suggested a good way was to recite the alphabet. Keep this in mind. As soon as the quarrel has lasted a minute stop what you are saying and begin: "A, B, C, D, E, F," etc. Let me know how it works out. If it works generally we will add it to the "How to Be Happy Though in Love" files of our Horses and Women Research Bureau.

MANY SOLDIERS write this department. Mostly in a spirit of fun. They never complain except to now and then mention their feelings as to workers on defense projects who demand higher wages under threats of a strike. That is something that really burns up the boys in the Army. And who can blame them? . . . "The Ramparts We Watch," by George Fielding Eliot, is a good book to read again at this time. Also John Gunther's "Inside Asia" . . . Next to correcting him in public, nothing so angers a husband as to have his wife open his letters . . . An Army officer cannot retire on his own request with less than 30 years' service. At 64 he must retire.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "Non-Fattening Carrot Ice Cream" is an item noted on a menu. I understand there is also such a thing as Spinach Ice Cream, though I have never encountered it. I don't like carrots, but I have to eat them because they are supposed to be good for the health. "You eat your carrots," my girl friend says to me sternly. Do you think that is any way to talk to a big boy like me? Don't you think I should rebel? . . . From all I can learn the thing that most tries stenographers' souls is when just a minute before 5 o'clock the boss says: "Take a couple of letters. They are very important and must be mailed tonight." In the interest of keeping his stenographer happy, a very difficult task, every boss should learn how to run a typewriter. Then he could write those 5 o'clock letters himself.

ASIDES: Grounds for divorce in Hollywood are getting fancier. Or at any rate the film colony cuties are making them sound fancier. "My husband has an oedipus complex" is what a Hollywoodian seeking a divorce recently told the judge. She meant, of course, that her husband loved his mother more than he did his wife. Who was it said: "Never marry a mama's boy?" . . . Helen Shaw, of Jamestown, N. Y., enters the following in the "Poil" poem contest:

Doiling had a goil named Poil,
Whose coives and coils boys heads would toin,
Her voice was sweet like songs of boids,
O, goil of goils! Oh, Poil of Poils!

WIGS, ETC.: Fifty-seven per cent of the wig-wearers in the United States are men. Women wear wigs and think nothing of it. Men wig-wearers worry. Maybe they have reason to. I have a letter from a man who has won the love of a girl and is now worrying as to whether or not he should tell her he wears a wig before he proposes. He insists his wig is so good the girl does not suspect it. How about your sweetheart, young woman? Do you think there is any chance he wears a wig like Harpo Marx, the film comedian? Maybe you better pull his hair and make sure.

MARX BROTHERS IN COMEDY SCENE
Harpo Doesn't Worry About Wig

PASSING BY: Kay Medford. Hollywoodian. Discussing her early struggles, Miss Medford says she once lived on the sixth floor of a New York walk-up apartment. A thing like that can make life very difficult. I once lived on the fifth floor of a Manhattan walk-up apartment, and it certainly was tough walking up those flights in the Summer after a hard day's work.

ADDED DETAILS: Those who saw that Jap submarine that tossed a few shells near Santa Barbara, Cal., say it was about 350 feet long. That's a lot of submarine. The regulation city block is about 260 feet long . . . One-sixth of the married women in the United States never bear children. But there is no reason to be too pessimistic about this as the married women who do bear children accounted for about 2,500,000 births in 1941. Have you noticed how few male children are now being saddled with the Junior tag as in John Smith, Jr.? . . . "As to that man who wants to put a crab to sleep," writes a New Yorker, "tell him to rub the crab between the eyes with the fingers back and forth. This works only on hard-boiled crabs." What continues to puzzle me is why does the man want to put a crab to sleep? Has he a pet crab with insomnia, or what?

FORMOSA: In Formosa, an important Japanese defense center, there are about 4,000,000 Chinese. Also about 80,000 wild head-hunting natives who delight in securing Nipponese heads. The Formosa Japs have to worry about the Chinese, the head-hunters and the "hundred pace" snakes. These reptiles are so named because they bite a man and after he has walked 100 paces he drops dead.

RICHMAN STILL WOOS HAZEL FORBES

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—Harry Richman's campaign to win back his ex-wife, Hazel Forbes, is working. She's wired that she'll join him in Florida . . . Connie Haines, Tommy Dorsey's vocalist, is ill. She'll stay on the Coast for six or eight weeks to recuperate.

Diana Barrymore plans to marry Bramwell Fletcher in three months. They'll live in the famous honeymoon house of Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor.

Her friends hear that Olivia De Havilland has promised to "wait" for Jimmy Stewart . . . Victor Mature's film company is set to spend a million berries "building him up." He'll assist by a series of whacky antics . . . Cole Porter's "Pot Pourri" is being held up because Beatrice Lillie's arrival has been delayed.

ROSEMARY LANE

JIMMY DURANTE is clowning through his Loew's State personal appearance with a severe case of laryngitis—which didn't keep him from doing benefits, too.

Jack Topping, of the Topping boys, and Eve Whitney, the Conover model, are a heartillery barrage.

The bidding for the New York booking of Carole Lombard's last picture, "To Be or Not to Be," was the most ferocious in years. The Music Hall, Capitol, Roxy and Rivoli all wanted it. The Rivoli won, and will show the film following the run of "Mr. V."

According to reports, Ella Logan will embrace the Jewish faith in deference to fiance Fred Finklehoffe's mother . . . The wealthy Mrs. Bror Dahlberg is the "angel" behind "Jason's" new lease on life.

WOOLLEY WINS PART FOR ANNE BAXTER

By Louella O. Parsons

Monty Woolley

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28—Anne Baxter is Monty Woolley's own choice for the ingenue in "Pied Piper," his movie for 20th. Last week there were rumblings that Woolley (who is more like "The Man Who Came to Dinner" off the screen than he is on it, according to his critics) was taking a high hand in the casting of his next picture. But whether Mr. Woolley is being difficult or not, there's a little story back of his selection of Anne.

Monty is a close crony of Frank Lloyd Wright, the famous architect, who happens to be Anne's grandfather. He's known her since she was a little girl, and, after seeing her in "Swamp Water," he thinks she's a darned good little actress. So—presto—she gets the part of the little French waif who marries Monty's screen son.

I AM WONDERING how Claudette Colbert had time to even read the script of "No Time for Love" at Sun Valley. She has been so busy being elected vice-president of the Ski Club and winning honors, but I'm a lady who takes Buddy De Sylva's word for it, and he tells me she read "No Time for Love" and agreed to make it as her next picture.

Certainly, it will reunite her with Mitchell Leisen, who directed her in "Arise, My Love," one of the best comedies of 1940. Claudette will be co-starred with Fred MacMurray, who plays a sand hog, with Claudette as a lady photographer who goes to the Holland tunnel to photograph him.

Sally tells me that "Meet Me in St. Louis" is all about herself and her sisters, Agnes (who used to be with me on the Morning Telegraph), Esther (the beauty of the family) and Rose (the elder sister).

DRAFT OFFICIALS HERE O. K. WILLIAMS' STATUS

Wagner Good Bet to Top A. L. Hurlers

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 28—Good long shot choice to lead the American League pitchers this year is 26-year-old Charlie Wagner, Red Sox right-hander.

After fertilizing the Sox farm for three years, Charlie arrived on well-shod feet in '41. He won 12 games for the Sox and had the lowest earned run average of any pitcher on the club.

His masterpiece, if you recall, was a 4 hit, 1-0 decision over Bob Feller on Aug. 5. Another was a 4-3 decision over Johnny Rigney in 11 innings. A third was a 7-hit shutout of the Nats, 5-0, beating Dutch Leonard. He lost some close ones, too, like the time the Yanks beat him in 12 innings on a Rizzuto homer.

Charlie first came up in '38. He was farmed out that year, also in '39 and '40. He was a small kid, weighing not more than 150 pounds in those early days, but even then he could pitch.

He proved it when he won 20 games at Rocky Mount, proved it again when he won 20 more at Minneapolis, proved it in '40 when he won 13 in a row for Louisville.

It was keep him or release him with the Sox last year, and so Charlie was given more consideration than he had received in the past.

He pitched well in the southland, shutting out Rochester in the first full game delivered by a Sox pitcher. And just before the season opened he shut out the Cincinnati Reds at Louisville.

At the opening of the season he was picked along with Grove, Wilson, Dickman and Ryba as the starting Sox pitchers, and he alone of that quintet remained on all year.

But it looked for a time as if he wouldn't retain that status, for he won only one of his first six games. Then, on June 1, he pulled a muscle in the back of his right leg and was out three weeks.

A discouraging outlook, even though he had pitched well enough to win in most of his starts. Three chances of sticking wasted in '38, '39 and '40, and now a 1-5 record in the middle of June on his fourth and final chance.

That is where the kid showed his mettle. He took mental stock of himself while he was recuperating from his injury, and when he returned he was practically unbeatable.

In fact from August 5 to season's end he won 7 of his last nine starting assignments, and was the most effective pitcher on the staff.

Yes, Wagner finally arrived. In fact of all the A. L. regulars only Thornton Lee, Tiny Bonham and Al Benton had better earned run averages.

Why we predict a big year for him in '42 is because he actually has grown during the past winter.

Last year he weighed only 168 when he was pitching his best ball. This year he reported weighing a solid 185, good weight, too. No pitcher in baseball takes better care of himself than the Reading fashion plate. He doesn't drink or smoke. He watches his diet like a MacFadden.

All winter he has been playing golf with his pal Gene Venzke, another model athlete. And for the past two months he has been working out in a Reading gymnasium strengthening his arms and shoulders.

He's in the finest condition of his career mentally as well as physically. He's a control pitcher and needs steady work to be at his best. He didn't get in his first three tries with the club. He's assured of it this year. Consequently he's happier than he ever was before.

Charlie takes care of an invalid father and his mother, and is 3-A in the draft. He'll be around all year.

If baseball goes through the season as expected, it wouldn't be surprising if a "Charlie Wagner Day" were held at Fenway Park before September. He came close to earning one last year. He looks like a cinch to clinch one this year.

an income of $50 a week cannot be reduced to $25 without hardship. By the same token, a dependent who is accustomed to an income of $10,000 a year would not find $50 a week reasonable support. There is, of course, a limit where it becomes ridiculous.

"In the case of Ted Williams the board found that his mother is dependent on him for support. If he were earning $30 weekly and supporting his mother he would be deferred. In these cases, it becomes a moral question which the man must answer for himself. Appeal boards simply rule on the legality of the case."

Other draft officials throughout Greater Boston agreed deferment of Williams was strictly in accord with selective service regulations. A Dorchester official said:

"A lot of things may seem doubtful in a draft case on the surface, but when you go into the circumstances of that case it takes on a different aspect.

"Before anyone passes an opinion on the Williams case he must have all the facts. With a knowledge of how the selective service operates, I would say there are circumstances we don't know about.

RULINGS USUALLY UPHELD

"I do know, however, that the appeal committee appointed by the President leans over backward to sustain the local board. Evidently there was some cause to warrant deferment for Williams.

"Even if Williams or his mother had money in the bank from his previous earnings, she could still be his dependent. A selective service ruling states that a dependent does not have to draw on his bank savings before a claim of dependency can be made."

His own draft board, the official stated, has handled several cases in which a mother may have resorted to her savings, but deferred the son because she had no other income.

"It wouldn't be fair," he said, "to force a mother to live entirely on savings by taking her son and cutting off his income from her. What would happen to such a mother if her money runs out while her son is still in the Army?"

If Ted Williams lived in Somerville, a draft board official from that city declared, he would have been deferred upon proof that his induction would be a hardship to a mother dependent on him for support.

Since war has been declared, the official said, the only cause for deferment on grounds of dependency is a situation over which the draft registrant has no control. The ruling automatically bars marriages since Dec. 8 as cause for deferment, but sons who support parents or juvenile brothers and sisters may be deferred.

"Support of a mother is certainly a cause for deferment," he said. "If the Williams case came before our board, we would consider it upon the grounds as to whether a hardship on the mother would result if Williams were inducted. That's the same grounds on which we have considered other cases.

ASKS PUBLIC BE FAIR

"We do not know all the circumstances in the Williams case. Draft boards are forbidden by law to make public such circumstances. These may be the extenuating ones on which deferment is granted."

Asking the public to suspend judgment on Ted Williams, George Leary, chairman of Board 15, North End, declared:

"It would be absolutely unfair for anyone to pass judgment on the Williams case one way or another. All selective service boards are doing what they feel is right and for the best. I wouldn't want anyone 3000 miles away passing judgment on my board, for instance.

"The public would do the country more good by refraining from passing judgment on any selective service cases, whether it's Ted Williams, John Smith or anyone else, for no two cases are the same.

"Hundreds of boys have been deferred by our board because they are the sole support of their mothers, and I haven't heard any criticism about such decisions."

A Back Bay draft board official stated:

"Any decision made on a case like Williams' is made with the full knowledge of the draft board, appeal board and Washington selective service officials, who have been informed as to his private affairs.

"On the question of dependency, no one can say that Williams' mother is not dependant on him. What Williams earns does not count, but whether he is the sole support of his mother and how much he contributes to her.

"We have had many cases of men who were deferred because their mothers were entirely dependent on them. If Williams could prove that his mother needed his support, then his Class 3-A classification was correct."

'Green Light' to Sports

Ted William' deferment to class 3-A in the draft, per order of President Roosevelt, can be construed as a "green light" to sports in the U. S. At a time when England and Australia are abandoning sports and other morale-saving pastimes with undue haste, F. D. R. has given baseball another boost in this critical period by allowing Williams to be deferred. Once more he has said "go ahead" to athletics.

Williams, like all other American youths, was willing to don khaki and take up a gun and join in the drive on the Axis but the appeal board found after investigation that Williams' induction would "put undue hardship on his mother" who is dependent on the Sox slugger.

The Army has Hank Greenberg and the Navy has Bob Feller and the loss of Williams would be a tremendous blow to baseball.

Williams passed his preliminary physical test and talked gleefully about dropping his bat and taking up a gun and knocking some Japs out of the park.

THE KID MADE NO APPEAL. His draft board investigated his case and went to Washington for a decision in a case which drew national attention. He rightfully belongs in class 3-A under the draft law.—Sports Editor.

Ernie Bonham Lost En Route To Yank Camp

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27—Ernie Bonham, all 200 pounds of him, is missing. The big hurler was one of the first Yank hurlers to accept terms for 1942 but he hasn't reported to Manager Joe McCarthy. He was due last Monday and all Marse Joe knows is that he is "en route here but I don't know from where."

ORLANDO, Fla.—Dutch Leonard, five days overdue and a holdout, may lose money if he doesn't sign his Washington contract in a hurry, says Owner Clark Griffith. The Senator boss is threatening to make the plump hurler train at his own expense for 30 days unless he agrees to terms shortly.

Don't Put Away Skis— Skiing's Best in March

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The best month for skiing, March, is now dressed up in its ski clothes and all ready to go. Records show that more snow falls in the mountains during March than at any other time of the year. Depths ranging from one foot to four or five feet at high altitudes now prevail throughout the North Country; the real season is just starting.

There will be plenty of slope skiing throughout this blustering month, while trail running was never better. And now is the time to try those trails.

No longer do skiers have to worry about the snow becoming icy or crusted. The alternate freezing at night and thawing by day will soon produce that much-desired granular surface known as "corn snow." Many New Englanders prefer skiing in this to powder.

CAN SKI EVEN IN JULY

March heralds the start of the sun-tan skiing season. The days are getting longer and the sun is getting warmer. In April comes shirt-sleeved schussing, as the gang pushes on to the famed Snow Bowl, Tuckerman Ravine, just below the summit of Mount Washington. In this vast saucer it is possible to ski until July, attired in shorts and ski boots.

Now is the time to stock up on beer for those trips into the Ravine. See that you have plenty of Klister for use in damp snow. And get your sealskins ready for those long climbs up such trails as the Sherburne, Wildcat and Tecumseh.

Everyone in the city is eager to ski early in the winter when there is not any snow. Some even put their skis away at the end of February. This is very silly! They should realize that the best skiing lies ahead and not base their judgment on the bare ground they see in town. Anyway while there has been very little local skiing available this winter, the sport has been in abundance at Northern centers since December.

TRAINS TO KEEP RUNNING

Without urging, crowds flock to ski lodges and resorts in January and February. They should be educated to keep this up during March, and all those in the skiing business should start an advertising campaign: "Ski in March, the Best Snow Month."

More and more skiers, however, are prolonging their season. The Boston & Maine Railroad will operate daily Snow Trains throughout March, with week-end trains scheduled to run into April. Plan now to take one of these trains.

More sanctioned ski races are held in March than in any other month, simply because trail conditions are better then.

FENN PLAYS HARVARD GOAL AGAINST YALE

The courage and determination of Abbott Fenn, Harvard's veteran goaltender, was rewarded this morning when his coach, Johnny Chase, nominated him to start in the nets tonight in the objective ice clash with Yale at the Arena.

At the beginning of the season, when Clark Hodder was coach, Fenn was rated number one. After Chase succeeded Hodder in midseason, Fenn played only sporadically. Big Grover O'Neill, redheaded sophomore, was considered the faster and steadier netminder by Chase, and started most of the games.

MADE 27 STOPS

His splendid showing in the third period of the Dartmouth contest a week ago won the starting job back for the courageous Concord lad. With Dartmouth leading 6-1, in the middle of the second canto, Chase substituted Fenn for the harassed O'Neill. Before Fenn could settle down, the hot Indian line of Riley, Rondeau, and Harrison scored three more.

In the third period, while his mates poured in three scores to make it 9-5, Fenn gave a masterful exhibition, making 27 stops, many of them labeled for scores.

YALE RECORD BETTER

Yale's starting sextet rates an edge over the Crimson due to its better record, but physically, the two teams are exactly even. Each averages five feet ten and one-half inches in height, and 167 pounds in weight.

Hold 'Ice Queen' Final Tomorrow

There will be a distinct military touch to the audience which will be on hand at the Boston Arena tomorrow evening when "Miss Boston" and "Miss Massachusetts" will be selected for the National Queen of the Ice Carnival. The Arena management has invited 1500 service men as guests for the finals which will see 16 charming young ladies who have survived two eliminations go through three tests for the two coveted awards.

This Ice Queen windup will be one feature of a grand night of entertainment. Heading the brilliant array of stars who will appear is lovely Ariane, the 18-year-old Swiss marvel who is International figure skating champion.

TEACHER AND PUPIL—Pretty Dorothea Dempsey gets in her final tuneup for the National Queen of the Ice Carnival which will be held tomorrow night at the Boston Arena. Edi Scholdan, Arena figure skating instructor who also will appear in the show, assists Miss Dempsey in her number.

BAY STATERS DUEL G. B. I. FOR SCHOOL HOCKEY TITLE

The Bay State Hockey League All-Stars, fresh from a 6 to 2 victory over the Eastern Mass. All-Stars, will tangle tonight at Boston Garden with the champs of the Greater Boston League.

With their scoring punch of Charlie Butler, Ralph Bassey and Joe Kraatz, the Bay Staters rule a slight favorite, with Coach Walter Brinn using the same lineup which brought victory last night.

G. B. I. SHIFTS LINEUP

Brinn will use Bob Howell, Quincy, in the goal; Ralph Bassey, Walpole, and Walter Delorey, Watertown, at defense; Charlie Butler, Waltham, Joe Kraatz, B. C. High, and Ed Thomas, Waltham, on the forward wall.

Coach Harold Pool major domo of the Greater Boston outfit, plans to start an entirely different first line than the one which dropped a 3 to 2 decision to the Montreal Catholic's on last Saturday.

Pool will rely on the skill of two members of the famed Rindge Flying Frenchmen, Bob Verrier and Romeo Gagnon.

FORMER BAY STATE ACE

Ray McInnes, sensational Belmont center ice man and formerly of Waltham in the Bay State League, will pivot the two Frenchmen.

The game will get under way at 7:15. Two periods of the schoolboy tilt will be played before the first stanza of the Pics and Baltimore game. The school boys will play off their third and final round between the first and second periods of the Olympic game.

Vermont Six Plays at Arena

The last of the six elimination games and all of the quarter-finals will hold the spotlight tomorrow in the third day of the 11th annual running of the N. E. A. A. U. hockey tournament being staged at the Garden.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., will make its initial appearance of the season on Boston ice when it tangles with the North Shore A. C. in a first round game at 1 o'clock.

Five other teams, South Boston All-Stars, Tufts Independents, Gloucester H. C., Hingham Cove A. C., and the Lexington Play-Mors are still in the running.

Immediately after the St. Johnsbury-North Shore tilt the teams to compete against each other in the quarters will be drawn.

ANOTHER NEW FACE—Larry Woodall, former coach of the San Francisco Seals and now of the Hose coaching staff, is pointed out the wonders of the Red Sox training camp by none other than Manager Joe Cronin. Woodall is a veteran of many years of major league playing Willie Tabb, 147, Cambridge Negro, knocked out Jackie Ford, 147, Worcester, third round; Joe Fernandez, 136, Boston Negro, knocked out Ed Chapman, 138, Worcester, third round.

C. Y. O. Battler Beats Zivic

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (INS)—Fritzie Zivic, a tired little old man with no zest for fighting, took another stride down the road to fistic oblivion here when he absorbed a 10-round beating from young Tony Motisi, a Gary, Ind., steel worker who entered the ring a three-to-one underdog.

A Chicago Coliseum crowd of 4580 looked on in amazement as Motisi, only a year removed from Catholic Youth Organization boxing circles, carried the fight to the former welterweight champion and veteran of 152 previous ring battles.

Bruins' Morale Never Higher; Roberge, Earley in Braves Fold

By BILL GRIMES

Art Ross and his assistant coach, "Dit" Clapper, have been sending the Bruins through strenuous practice sessions for two days . . . The Bruins have only eight games to play before the curtain will descend on the 1941-42 season . . . And they should be coasting along for the play-offs, but instead, are practicing as though the season was just about to open . . . Over the years, spirit has been one of the Bruins' best assets. And, the revamped Bruins will carry on the tradition.

Although they were set back by Rangers, the Detroit Red Wings will prove tough opponents for the Rossmen tomorrow night at the Garden. Up to that game they were really buzzing along, for they'd beaten Canadiens, Chicago, Toronto and Americans, blanking the Flying Frenchmen and the Maple Leafs, scoring 17 goals to their opponents' 3 . . . The Maple Leafs and Blackhawks start a home and home series tonight in Toronto and after tomorrow's engagement in the Windy City, Coach "Hap" Day and his Queen City delegation will climb on the midnight train for here.

Al "Skippy" Roberge, Lowell, who has been playing pro basketball with the Good-Wins, has signed and returned his Braves contract. He has been with the Boston organization for three years, starting at Bradford, Pa., in the Pony League in 1939. After a fine year under Bob Coleman at Evansville of the Three Eye League, "Skippy" was moved up to Hartford and brought up to the Braves last season. He will start his second trip to a major league camp next Saturday . . . Tom Earley, who was in conference with Pres. Bob Quinn on Thursday and then went home to get his contract, finally showed up yesterday and he's now a member in good standing. Tom has the makings of a great pitcher and both Quinn and Casey Stengel will be greatly disappointed if he does not deliver this year.

Johnny Cooney, who has led the Braves in hitting for two years despite the fact that he was the oldest man on the pay roll, wrote Quinn that Mrs. Cooney had undergone a major operation and that he'd be unable to report at Sanford until March 10 . . . Johnny doesn't agree with the boys who have written stories that he will hit the skids this year. He says he'll be better than ever . . . If a few of the other Braves would sell themselves that idea they'd soon be in a position to receive salary increases . . . The New York Yankees disposed of Gene Moore before the little Texan returned his contract and asked for more money. He's Montreal bound, if he comes to terms with the Dodgers, who refused to waive on him.

Freddie Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, was in New York yesterday. He's now headed for St. Pete . . . Freddie left his touring pros in New Orleans to go to Chicago for a joint P. G. A.-U. S. G. A. meeting which was called to promote the Hall America tournaments . . . A year ago, Gene Mosher, pro at Toy Town Tavern, sat in on many of the Braves' practice sessions down at San Antonio . . . This year, the Braves will probably see a lot of Arthur Johnson, pro at Weston, who is located for the winter at Mt. Plymouth, Fla., which is within ten miles of Sanford . . . Dick Hevessy, Braves' stockholder, is now listed as Major Richard J. Hevessy, U. S. A. He was in the U. S. Marines during World War No. 1 and spent five years in Japan. And, like Moe Berg, the Major speaks the language of the Nipponese fluently.

Jim Mahoney, John O'Donnell and Joe Fay were so anxious to get in some golf at the earliest possible moment that they drove through from the Woodland Golf Club to Pinehurst, N. C., without a lay over . . . Gil Dodds, Flying Parson, times himself daily on his walks from his home to Boston College, where he works out under the experienced eye of Jack Ryder . . . The Pony League will be an eight club circuit this season, reports Johnny Quinn, who attended the annual meeting Thursday in Buffalo . . . Wellesport and Lockport posted guarantees and were admitted to membership.

John Quinn was unable to contact either Chet Ross or Warren Spahn while he was in the Bison City, but he did talk to Sibby Sisti on the 'phone . . . Although he has been around here all winter, Bob Williams, the former Amherst southpaw, hasn't bothered to get in touch with the Braves . . . Duffy Lewis, traveling secretary of the Braves must be in the pink of condition. He recently went through from the antipasto to the nuts during the dinner tossed by Joe Perini at Framingham.

Louis Ordered To Fort Dix

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—Private Joe Louis received his official orders today transferring him from Camp Upton, N. Y., to Fort Dix, N. J., where he will go into training Monday for the March 27 defense of his heavyweight boxing title against Abe Simon.

At Fort Dix Louis will be attached to 1204th unit. The Army information office said Louis' activities in preparation for the fight "will not interfere with his training in the school of the soldier."

Arrangements have been made for his daily instruction, so that his Army progress will keep pace with that of the others who were inducted into the service with him," the office said.

Miamians Duel For Dixie Title

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Two Miamians, Earl Christiansen and William Y. Stembler, renewed a golfing feud of long standing today in the finals of the Dixie amateur tournament.

Stembler, who ousted youthful Sanford Rissman of Chicago 4 and 3 in the semi-finals, has beaten Christiansen only once in their four previous tournament meetings.

Christiansen, a golfing policeman who holds the Florida state amateur title, gained the finals with a 4 and 3 victory over Skee Riegel, Los Angeles aviation student.

The duel between the two Miamians today made it certain that the trophy would return southward. Frank Strafaci of New York, winner in 1940 and 1941, did not defend the cup.

HEBERT-PEPPI FIGHT HEADS BELT FINALS

The Irish-American A. A. have completed all plans for the holding of the grand finals of the Diamond Ring Tournament at Boston Arena next Monday night. There will be 32 of the top-ranking New England young leather tossers contesting in 24 bouts in the 8 classes at championship weights.

A change has been made in the 112 pounds class due to an injury sustained by Walter Kijanka of Lowell, and Tony Peppi, the All-America titleholder will take his place. This means the flyweights will be a super attraction for a return match between Peppi and Joe Hebert of Lowell is a main bout on any card. These two boys met in the finals of the All-America, and the fans are still talking about the bout, many still feeling that the Lowell lad was robbed by the decision of the judges.

QUALIFY FOR NATIONALS

Next Monday night will be another story as Lowell Joe is out for revenge. Let's go!

Monday's winners in all classes will automatically qualify for the New England A.A.A.U. Championships at Boston Garden on March 23, so every one of the 32 youngsters on the card will be out to make a place on that program. Only those who win New England championship honors can hope to represent New England in the Nationals at the Garden in April.

The card is now complete with the 126-pound and heavyweight divisions rounded out. The featherweights are a classy lot of punch throwers and include Tony DeGregoria, Boston, the 1941 N. E. A. A. U. bantamweight champion who reached the semi-finals of last year's Nationals. Angus White, a newcomer this season from Framingham, who has been improving with each show and a serious threat any time he crawls through the ropes; Bobby Zollo, Providence, R. I., the Golden Gloves king, and Walter Barch, Worcester, Diamond Belt winner who gave Francis Leonard a rough passage in the N. E. All-America tournament.

PLENTY OF OPPOSITION

Pete Louthis, Cumberland, R. I., and Providence College heavyweight, is out to carry on where he left off in winning the Diamond Belt title. He has plenty of stiff opposition in George Costello, a new boy from Weymouth who has what it really takes to make a champion; Pat Devine, Cambridge, a former New England champion in this class, and Joe Roshka, Providence, R. I., one of the best looking heavyweights uncovered in these parts in many years.

Qualifiers for finals:

112-Pound Class—Clem Crowley, Dorchester; George Baker, Lynn; Joseph Hebert, Lowell; Tony Peppi, Boston.

.26-Pound Class—Joe Nogueiro, Boston; Ed Gullage, Chelsea; Leonard Delmonico, Fitchburg; James Lymas, Lowell.

126-Pound Class—Angus White, Framingham; Bobby Zollo, Providence, R. I.; Walter Barch, Worcester; Antose DeGregorio, Boston.

135 Pound Class—Al Aloisi, Boston; George Perkins, Saugus; Mickey O'Donnell, U. S. Navy; James Lanier, Cambridge.

147-Pound Class—James Pettie, Woburn; Willard Buckley, Saugus; Frank MacTarnell, Roxbury; Edward Barnes, Saugus.

160-Pound Class—Edward Johnson, U. S. Coast Guard; Alfred Otero, Boston; James Mulligan, Lowell; Joseph Penta, Everett.

175-Pound Class—Tommy Doherty, South Boston; Mike Leone, Boston; Alfred LaBonte, Cambridge; Anthony Bonamo, Malden.

Heavyweight Class—George Costello, Weymouth; Pat Devine, Cambridge; Peter Louthis, Cumberland, R. I.; Joe Roshka, Providence, R. I.

DODDS FACES MacMITCHELL IN NATIONALS

"Winning that mile means more to me right now than a record," he declared.

MacMitchell, who has flirted with 4:10 in every start this winter, rates Earl Mitchell, Indiana's sophomore, as No. 1 menace and also is a mite curious about what kind of a race Gil Dodds of the Boston A. A. will produce.

Dodds is the divinity student who has forced Greg Rice to do under nine minutes in the two-mile three times in recent weeks. He has dropped to the shorter race for this meet while Rice has stepped up to the three-mile, where he is defending champion. There is no two-mile run.

And then there is also Walter Mehl the last runner to defeat MacMitchell and winner of last year's race in 4:10.8. The former Wisconsin spiked shoe star has been slowed down all season by tender feet but will have 72 hours of rest by meet time.

Mehl is one of the meet's 10 defending champions. John Borican, who was too busy studying art to run while at Columbia, will try for his fourth indoor record while defending his 1000-yard title.

Borican, now representing the Shore A. C. of Asbury Park, N. J., has been granted permission to carry on to the 1000-meter line for an attempt to shatter Lloyd Hahn's recognized standard. The powerful Negro already holds the 600 and 1000-yard run marks and shares the indoor half-mile record with Hahn.

Leafs Can Cut Rangers' Lead Over Week-end

By the Associated Press

Toronto, six points behind New York in the National Hockey League, has two chances this week-end to cut down that margin while the few healthy Rangers visit teammates in the hospital.

The Leafs, leaders early in the season, have hung at or near the top the entire campaign. When misfortune in wholesale lots hit the Boston Bruins, they quickly vaulted over the Bruins with five victories and a tie in their last seven contests.

Their menu for the week-end is a home and home series with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Although the Rangers are the only top flight club not to take the ice tonight or tomorrow, most of the league interest will be centered among the three trailing sextets.

Brooklyn and Montreal — with the Americans a single point ahead of the Canadiens — open a two-game series in the Forum tonight with the second chapter slated for Madison Square Garden on Sunday.

Detroit, now two full games ahead of its cellar pals, is carded for a Sunday night meeting with the Bruins, gradually smoothing out their plays with virtually an entire roster of new players.

Olympics Eager For Comeback

The Olympics will be out to even the count with the Baltimore Orioles tonight at the Garden when the two Eastern Amateur League clubs clash for the second time in as many days.

Another doubleheader is scheduled this time between the Greater Boston Interscholastic League All-Stars and a similar team representing the Bay State League, 6-2 winners last night over the Eastern Mass. League Stars.

In one of the wildest scoring periods seen here this year, the Orioles came from behind in the first game last night and tallied seven times to turn back the Pics, 9-7.

Entering the third period, the Birds were trailing 2-4 but, they showed a complete reversal of form over the first two frames and unleashed a furious scoring attack that saw them take command of the game before the chapter was five minutes old.
